To Whom It May Concern,

My name is John Kane and I am a licensed chiropractor and have had a private practice for the last 20 years in New Jersey. In 2004 I began to learn and use Neuromodulation Technique, NMT by Leslie Feinberg DC. My practice addresses mostly musculoskeletal issues. I have seen dramatic decrease in pain and increase of range of motion with use of this method.

I had a patient who I was treating for a host of problems and I was telling her how useful NMT was in treating patients. I told her of another chiropractors success in treating fibroids in the uterus and how in using the appropriate pathways as taught in the NMT manual, a woman had passed a fibroid. My patient asked me to do this for her as she also complained of them. So we treated her that visit. She came in, after missing an appointment, 2 weeks later. I asked her how she was doing from her last visit. She said "It worked". I asked her, "What worked?" She replied, "I passed 4 small fibroids a week after the treatment."

I remember treating a patient who had a piece of roofing fall on his head. He had poor range of motion in his neck, pain and stiffness and paresthesia down both arms. After 20 minutes of work using NMT as taught in the manuals, I had him reassess his level of pain. He began to rotate his neck bending it back and turned to me in surprise saying that it no longer hurt but how could this happen as I never touched his neck during treatment.

Another patient was a 50-year-old woman with constant pain in her knee from ligament tears. She had already seen and undergone treatment with a physical therapist and orthopedic surgeon and was considering surgery when she consulted with me. Using NMT as taught by use of the NMT seminar manual, I was able to take the pain out of her knee. The patient was totally surprised at this as she could still feel that the knee was weak, but it no longer hurt and no movement that usually caused pain did so. MMT works as disclosed in the manual.
